The Week in Oxford County

Michael, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Malloux of Andover, was crushed to death by a truck operated by Antonio Jannace, Rumford fruit peddler, Saturday forenoon. The truck was parked in the Malloux yard and several children were playing around it, but the driver believed all of them had left when he started to back the truck. Mr. Malloux is principal of Andover High School.

The body of Richard Wood of Norway was found dead in a camp on the Harrison road, Saturday, where he lived alone. His death was from natural causes, according to county medical examiner, Dr. Delbert M. Stewart.

Jeanne Legere, 12 years old, of Rumford, was seriously injured Saturday evening, when struck by a car at the intersection of Lincoln Avenue and Waldo Street, in Rumford. The girl was treated at the Rumford Community Hospital where authorities considered her condition as serious. The car was driven by Laurie Williams of Mexico.

Richard C. Gillis, Stephens High School senior, was awarded the engineering scholarship of the Oxford Paper Company Tuesday. Young Gillis is one of the outstanding seniors at Stephens High, being active in sports as well as other clubs at school.

AVAILABLE BLOOD DONORS ASKED TO LIST NAMES

Volunteers are asked to have their names on a list of those willing to give blood to friends or neighbors when urgently needed. Some local donors have already given 30 or more times and doubtless there are many who will wish to be included in a more complete list. Persons interested are asked to contact Eugene Van Den Kerckhoven.

EVERY STATE ACCEPTING NATIONAL 4-H PROGRAMS IN 1951 — A RECORD

For the first time in 4-H Club history, the national 4-H Dairy Achievement, Leadership and Meat Animal Awards programs are being accepted by every state in the Union in 1951.

In all three programs, medals of honor are awarded to county winners, and 17-jewel wrist watches to state champions. Sectional winners picked from the latter will be given all-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November. National winners receive $500 college scholarships. The Leadership and Meat Animal awards are being provided respectively by Edward Foss Wilcox and Thos. E. Wilson, Chicago meat packer executives. Dairy awards will be furnished by Lederle Laboratories.

The first place boy and girl in 4-H Leadership each will also receive a silver trophy, and the second place boy and girl each will be awarded a $150 college scholarship.

Last year's state winners in Maine were: Dairy Achievement—Elsin Wilcox, Jr., Waterville; Leadership—Eleanor Carver, Buckfield; and Meat Animal, Raymond Paul, of Bangor.

All of these programs are conducted under the director of the Cooperative Extension Service. County Club agents will furnish all information.

Immediately following this program, the Legion and Auxiliary members and Scouts went to West Bethel where they were joined by the school children. The parade went from the school house to the cemetery where services were held and flowers were placed on graves of soldiers by the children.

YELLOW ROCKET SPREADING RAPIDLY IN OXFORD COUNTY

The weed with a yellow flower, which can be seen in most fields and pastures now, that looks like kale or yellow mustard is Yellow Rocket. According to H. A. Leonard, county agent in Oxford County for the Maine Extension Service, this weed is spreading rapidly on many farms. Now is the time to eradicate it before it becomes a serious weed, as it has in states to the West of Maine.

If the infestation is light, it can be pulled with the use of a spud, making sure to get the root. Plants pulled at the full bloom stage should be removed from the field, as they may form seeds. If there are larger patches, then spot spraying with 2-4-D will prevent the plants from going to seed. Spot spraying should not be used with 2-4-D in clover fields as 2-4-D is injurious to clover. If the field is all grass, then 2-4-D can be used safely without any damage to the grass. There is no danger to stock from spraying pastures and hayland with 2-4-D.

Act now to clean the Yellow Rocket out of your land and prevent 100% infestation which many farms to the west of Maine now have to contend with.

CONTROL WEEDS IN OATS WITH CHEMICAL SPRAYS

Now is the time to spray oats with chemical sprays to control weeds such as mustard or kale and ragweed or lamb's quarters according to H. A. Leonard, County Agent in Oxford County for the Maine Extension Service.

Chemical spraying of oats will insure a clean crop of oats and eliminate a crop of weeds and weed seeds to contend with in the field.

If the oats are seeded with clover, then Sinex W or Dow Selective should be used. After the oats are 6 to 8 inches tall, apply at the following rates: If the temperature is 68 to 80 degrees F., 3 qts. per 100 gallons; if the temperature is below 65°, use 4 quarts per 100 gallons; and if the temperature is 80 to 85 degrees, use 2 quarts per 100 gallons. These rates are on a per acre basis.

If the oats are not seeded with clover, then 2-4-D sodium or Amine salts can be used when the oats are 6 to 8 inches high apply one-fourth to one-half a pound of 2-4-D and equivalent per acre in 50 to 100 gallons of water.

In Oxford County there is one man who is doing custom spraying of oats and corn.

For more details on spraying oats and any other crop with chemicals to control weeds, consult your county agent H. A. Leonard, South Paris, Maine.

Two changes in the personnel of the state office of the Maine Extension Service will occur on July 1. Dr. Franklin P. Leonard, Oxford County agent, will become associate professor of animal husbandry and part-time Extension dairy specialist.

PUBLICITY BUREAU TO HOLD PUBLICITY SCHOOL JUNE 18

The Maine Publicity Bureau's Travel Council School, an intensive one-day course for all personnel of cooperating information bureaus throughout the State, will be held June 18 at the Eastland Hotel. Guy P. Butler, executive manager of Publicity, has been named.

To Chambers of Commerce and other civic groups which qualify, the Publicity Bureau designates local information offices as official branches of the Maine Publicity Bureau, with standard signs to guide summer visitors. The Maine State Police, inland and coastal wardens are incorporated into the State-wide information network. All are supplied with weekly Summer bulletins of current events and general information such as road conditions, as well as other informational aids.

Purpose of the cooperating informational network, now in its 12th year, is to maintain the highest possible standards of service to the traveling public. Many letters of commendation as well as favorable comments from Maine visitors have proved the value of the Bureau's Cooperating Information.

Other States have adopted the idea for their own use. Program details will be announced shortly.

Several of the senior girls enjoyed a week end party at the Hastings cottage, Umbagog Lake. Those in the party were: Miss Virginia Hastings, Miss Joyce, and Miss Mary Alice Hastings. Nine of Twelve April Highway Deaths Caused By Drowning

April resulted in the death of 12 persons and brought the total fatalities for the first four months to 47 killed—7 more than last year and an increase of 18%.

An unusual feature of this year's fatalities is that 9 of the total killed have drowned when cars left the highway going into rivers and streams.

This increase, however, is not the result of a consistent upward trend in fatal accidents on a monthly basis, but is wholly due to the record fatality for the last three months are down 1 from last year.

Personal injury accidents show the greatest increase for the four month period with 410 as compared to 299 a year ago—up 104 or 37%, while property damage accidents total 909 this year against 910 for 1950.

When trying to determine the reason for this higher accident frequency, we must consider as a contributing factor a 4% increase in both operators' licenses and vehicles registered for a similar period as well as a 15% increase in the gasoline used for highway travel during the first quarter.

The pedestrian accident situation is much the same as last year with 8 killed, an increase of one. It is this type of accident together with bicycles which we must guard most against in the months ahead. The warmer weather means more pedestrians and bicyclists on our streets and highways after dark.

Many pedestrians do not yet seem to understand that they should walk facing traffic in rural areas. Observation of this law would save the lives of several who will be killed this coming summer simply because they will be walking on the right hand side of the road indifferent to vehicles approaching from behind.

L. L. John deWinter, Director, Division of Traffic & Safety, Maine State Police.

Our flower contest still grows for we now have 72 different flowers. Our latest rare flower is the Yellow Lady's Slipper. Many of us had never seen one. John Curtis, one of our first graders, found it.

All of the pupils have had birthday parties this year. So we, with the help of our mothers, got together and gave our teacher a party last Friday. There was a beautiful maybasket which some of our mothers made. In it we placed a white pocketbook and a pair of nylon gloves, white also. The mothers arrived about 2:15 to surprise Mrs.
Morgan, and brought two gallons of ice cream and two beautiful cakes, one of which had our teacher's name on it. Mrs. Morgan was pleased and we all had a very nice time.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

MADEIRA LANE
EDWARDS
Associate Editor
Parents Magazine

A GOOD MANY PARENTS pour advice and instruction upon their children as if they were testing out the old adage that constant dripping will wear away stone. Actually, harping on any topic wears away the patience of the listener.

Parents are well aware of this when the shoe is on the other foot and it is a child who is hammering away with a point. "Why can't I, Mother?" or "Daddy, please let me!" whined in repeated protest against a parental ruling can stretch adult tempers too thin for control.

But the same adults seem to forget that by the same token, their own rebellions can irritate a child into open revolt. The overzealous mother who admonishes her youngster to shake hands like a little lady or gentleman, each time she entertains a visitor, may wonder why her usually friendly tot scowls, hangs his head or scuffs his feet instead of obeying orders.

Perhaps his rudeness is the result of having had the same advice drilled into his ears so frequently that he has come to hear it only as a disagreeable noise. Perhaps he had every intention of shaking hands politely on his own initiative and feels annoyance at having this initiative taken away from him. His unconscious revenge is to do just the opposite of what he has been told to do, too often.

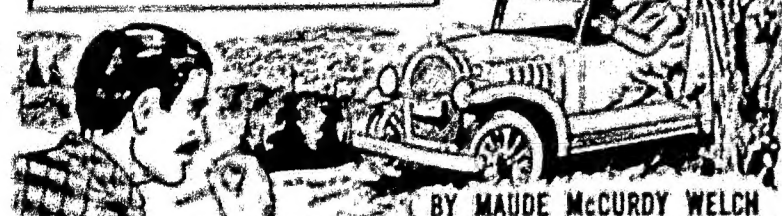

Letting a child act on his own initiative is an important part of his growing up. As soon as possible she should have a chance to react to circumstances for which no previous pattern has been set. One mother we know tried this out on her seven year old son with a very satisfactory result. He had been increasingly reluctant to interrupt his outdoor play to come in for lunch. Each noon found the impatient mother calling him again and again. When he finally obeyed her calls, she punctuated his meal with scoldings about how much trouble his lateness had caused her. It got to be a question of whether she or the little boy dreaded lunchtime the more.

Then, one day, mother decided on a new course of action. She called her little lad once and once only. When hunger—or possibly curiosity at not hearing his name and the familiar "You come in right now!" in continued shouting—finally brought him to the house an hour or so later, he found neither set table nor stream of maternal scolding awaiting him. "Where's my lunch?" he asked with surprised interest. "It's past lunchtime," mother informed him calmly. "You didn't come when I called so I ate without you and now everything's put away and the dishes are all washed."

The young laggard spent an uncomfortable hungry afternoon that day, which had more effect than all the previous reminders and reprimands. And besides he had the inner satisfaction of figuring out for himself the effect of his own conduct.

THE ANSWER

BY MAUDE McCURDY WELCH

MARTHA KNEW something had happened when Timothy came home from St. Louis. She knew also told her in his own good time. There were no secrets between them after 12 happy years of marriage.

She prepared his supper, but Timothy only had time to say good night to her and go to bed. He was not to come home until the next morning.

Martha's anxiety took off her sleep and she was in the study with her pen and paper, waiting for the first sign of the small community in the house. She was often called on to set as a church member, he had a good thorough medical exam.

The first thing Timothy did was to tell her that he had been to the doctor. He said he was all right and that he was going to be a doctor.

Timothy told Martha to take a bath and get ready for bed. He said he was going to be a doctor and that he was going to be a doctor.

EASY DOES IT

TO HELP PREVENT had discoloration of bruises on arms and legs, there are several easy remedies. One which helps is to rub the bruised part with starch moistened in cold water. Another is to rub the part with a small amount of lard or butter immediately.

To relieve the eyes when they're inflamed or irritated, bathe with sterile cotton balls in a solution of boric acid and boiled water which has been cooled. An eye cup may also be used for this application. A pinch of moistened baking soda applied to insect bites will stop their itching and smarting. Dampened salt may also be used to relieve the pain of insect bites.

For bee stings, bathe the affected parts in equal amounts of water and ammonia. If this is not available, use a paste made of baking soda, salt and water for the sting.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Deluxe Baked Beans (Serves 4)

1 16-ounce can pork and beans
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 cup catsup
2 slices bacon, cut in 1-inch pieces
Combine all ingredients. Bake covered in a greased 1 1/2-quart casserole in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 20 minutes. Uncover and continue baking for another 20 minutes.

or a frequent application of hydrogen peroxide.

If you've been stung by a poisonous insect, squeeze out all the poison in the wound, then cover with olive oil and powdered chalk mixed to a creamy consistency.

To bring prompt relief to wasp stings, apply ammonia to the sting, or a solution of washing soda and water. Several applications of either of these help relieve the pain.

When you go on a picnic or a hike, it's a good idea to apply vinegar and water to parts which will be exposed to insects as this retards their biting. Oil of citronella (lemon oil) or oil of geranium will also prevent many insects bites when applied to the skin.

205,000 TREES GIVEN PULPWOOD PRODUCERS

Since the inception of its well-known "tree for tree" program, Brown Company, Berlin, N. H., has furnished a total of 205,000 trees for planting on the lands of its pulpwood producers in New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont. These trees consisted of white pine, Norway pine, and white spruce, and were purchased from the various state forest nurseries. Trees were distributed on the basis of 15 trees given for each cord of pulpwood produced for the company with a minimum of 1000 trees for each producer.

The Vermont Forest Service recently sent a truck to Pennsylvania for trees to supplement their supply for Brown Company and other Maine producers. The truck distributed 2000 of these trees in the State of Maine. Brown Company buys in Maine, John H. Henshaw of South Bethel and John Henshaw of the Woods department, called on and distributed trees personally to 20 producers located in southeastern and central Maine. These pines or spruces planted in the coastal areas of Maine, which were burned over in the 1947 forest fire, in old run-out fields and pastures, and in out-crover areas within an area of some 400 square miles.

Commercial lumbermen have taken advantage of this program. John H. Chubbuck of Bethel has planted 10,000 of these trees. Henshaw

Brown of North Waterford is another lumberman planting up several acres. Other pulpwood producers doing planting include farmers, woodland owners, and retired country gentlemen from the state of Maine.

Although Brown Company attempted to obtain white spruce planting stock all over New England and in Canada, it was impossible to do so. Some producers have been given credit on a certain number of trees for planting next year.

Present plans are that Brown Company will extend the program another year.

BOND SALES UP OVER SAME PERIOD YEAR AGO

Defense Bond sales in the four-month period ended April 29th, totaled $2,084,000 individual pieces, exceeding the same period a year ago by $250,000 pieces or 4.1%. Of the total placed, 18,429,000 pieces were $25 and $50 bonds, 1,661,000 were $100 and $500 bonds, and 1,000 were $1,000 and $5,000 bonds.

The dollar volume of Series E bonds in this four-month period aggregated only $1,145,000,000, off 12.7% against the same months of 1950. The $25 and $50 bonds accounted for $1,000,000 of the total, 87% more than during the comparable period last year. Sales of $100 and $500 bonds amounted to $147,000,000, a 202% drop.

In recent months there have been two marked shifts in the distribution of Series E sales. An increasing number of small denomination bonds are being sold and a decreasing number of $100 and $500 bonds.

The $25 and $50 sales are accounting for an increasing proportion of the dollar volume. 26.6% of the total came from these two sales during the first four months of 1951. The $100 and $500 bonds accounted for 43.3%. For the same period a year ago, the ratio for the $25's and $50's was 28.3%, and for the $100's and $500's 24.6%.

One of the healthiest developments in recent history is found in the fact that more and more typical citizens are becoming active partners in the American economy through stock ownership in our corporations. DISSEL THIS MYSTERY

The true significance of the profits earned by American business corporations has been overlooked by millions of people — many of whom seem to think that profits and dividends represent unjustified and unearned income for a small, wealthy minority.

A brief article by Arthur M. Whitehill, Jr., which recently appeared on the editorial page of the Saturday Evening Post, does a fine job of correcting this mistaken point of view. Mr. Whitehill points out that one of two things must be done with the money a corporation has left after all its bills, including taxes are paid. It can spend the money for business purposes. Or it can distribute it, in the form of dividends, to the stockholders who own it and make its existence possible.

If the first course is followed, the money goes for all kinds of materials, etc., cement, and so on — and for labor on the job and in the other industries which provide the needed supplies. In other words, the money is about as widely distributed as anyone could desire.

If the second course is followed, and dividends are paid, the responsibility for its disposal falls upon individuals and their families. As Mr. Whitehill writes, "Since about one third of corporate dividends go to persons with yearly incomes of less than $5,000, this responsibility probably does not create a very difficult problem. It is true that some 20 years ago only about 200,000 persons owned corporate securities. But, today, the total number of shareholders has been estimated at from ten to fifteen million persons, obviously not all millionaires and most of them ordinary Americans with saving habits."

One of the healthiest developments in recent history is found in the fact that more and more typical citizens are becoming active partners in the American economy through stock ownership in our corporations. As Mr. Whitehill says at the end of his article, "Perhaps if some of the mystery which shrouds the use of business profits can be dispelled, the importance of profits to all classes in a healthy

The Low Down from Hickory Grove

Big Govt. depends in no small measure on confusion. If a question can be made sufficiently complicated and non-understandable it gets the nod. We don't choose to let on that we don't savvy "big stuff"—what would the neighbors rate us as, if we questioned the wispy, high-sounding, do-gooding that is now the front parlor vogue.

Take England. The folks there listened and gave the nod to the confusing but rosy palaver of the Socialist-Labor Party. The theorists stamped the voters there who did not have within arm's reach the big sounding long words necessary to answer adequately, as they thought, the higher level arguments of the Govt. big shorts. And now what. A few formerly free false teeth decide the argument. They are rocking the glib Govt. to its foundation. Simple, eh, wot.

And to come closer home — no voice in volume was raised in our own land as the Bright Thinkers loaded this Nation with such un-American politically managed, expensive misfits as the Grand Coulee, TVA, and Hungry Horse projects—and 100 others. Congress sat idle and overcame and dumbled by the intellectually presented
